

Summary of Health Issues in South Africa

Monday, 11th April 2016

South Africans are experiencing a high incidence of post-traumatic stress disorder and depression, this troubled by a shortage of mental health professionals. This meaning no cure is evident in the near future. There is a shortage of training centres. One in four employees are suffering with diagnosed depression by a specialist. Suicide rates are increasing.

RESEARCH: LEONIE WAGNER: THE TIMES, 11TH APRIL 2016